

Jim Grieve

Seasoned safety presenter who can engage any audience—in person or online.

Jim has provided safety and technical training solutions to schools and industries for 17 years. In that time he's trained everyone from high school students to experienced safety professionals, and helped a wide range of industries strengthen their safety programs.

From on-site plant implementation to corporate presentations and hands-on training, one thing has stayed constant—Jim's ability to engage his audience and get them to buy into his message. It's allowed him to effectively convey his safety message and motivate even the most difficult learner.

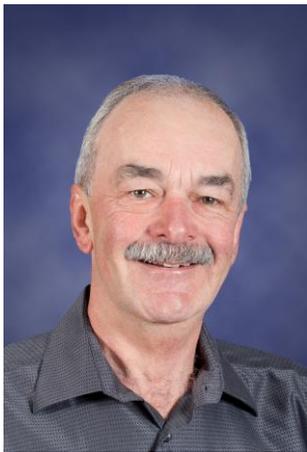

His sincerity and passion for helping people and organizations to reduce injuries both on- and off-the-job is evident when he speaks, and he's captivated attendees at conferences and public workshops across Canada.

Jim is at the forefront of new training technology and the evolution of e-learning. As an integral part of our e-learning team Jim has smoothly delivered online training solutions for clients of all sizes, and he can effectively establish a personal connection with digital and in-person audiences alike.

Jim and his wife have been married for 40 years, and he is the proud father of 2 daughters and grandfather to 2 grandchildren. His family and his work in the educational sector are constant reminders of the importance of providing essential safety skills to the next generation of workers—and they drive Jim to make every one of his presentations informative, interesting and engaging.

The Nuts & Bolts of E-learning: Best Practices Revealed

This interactive, workshop-style presentation is designed for both newcomers and experienced users of e-learning. Working in table groups, the activities will delve into how to ensure your e-learning implementation is engaging, practical, and accepted by employees and management alike. Topics include: why you should customize content; e-learning is not just for safety training; how to plan a successful roll-out; providing incentives and do they really work; communication is the key to success; branding is more than just your logo; tracking results for due diligence; and, how important is reporting? Join us for this opportunity to network with other safety professionals, discuss best practices and learn from an expert in e-learning implementation.

Here is what attendees at Jim's sessions are saying:

"Jim's easy-going manner made the session fun."

"His ability to relate the material to real-world situations was great."

"Jim Grieve was an excellent trainer. He presented the material in an engaging and interesting way."

"Everything I wanted to know about e-learning was covered in this session."